Quality Teaching Rounds – 2 Day Program

Laureate Professor Jenny Gore

Jenny Gore is a Laureate Professor in the School of Education at the University of Newcastle, Australia, where she was Dean of Education and Head of School for six years (2008–2013). She completed a Master's degree at the University of British Columbia, Canada (1983), and PhD at the University of Wisconsin-Madison, USA (1990), and has held executive roles for the Australian Association for Research in Education, the Australian Council of Deans of Education, and the NSW Teacher Education Council. Currently Director of the Teachers and Teaching Research Centre, Co-Editor of the international journal, Teaching and Teacher Education, a Visiting Professor at the University of Oxford, Jenny has won more than AUD $23 million in research funding including several grants awarded by the Australian Research Council.

Her educational and research interests consistently centre on quality and equity, ranging across such topics as teacher socialisation, reform in teacher education, pedagogical reform, teacher development, and student aspirations. Jenny's program of work on Quality Teaching (a framework developed with James Ladwig in 2003) has had significant impact in government, Catholic, and independent schools throughout Australia, especially in NSW and the ACT. This work subsequently led to the conceptualisation of Quality Teaching Rounds (with Julie Bowe), an innovative approach to teacher professional development. Widely published and cited (more than 9,570 citations), her recent major research projects include a longitudinal study exploring the formation of educational and career aspirations during schooling and a randomised controlled trial investigating the impact of Quality Teaching Rounds on teaching quality and teacher morale.

Regarded as one of Australia's leading teaching and teacher education academics, Jenny is deeply committed to supporting teachers in delivering high quality and equitable outcomes for students.

Quality Teaching Rounds training requires a minimum of two school leaders with classroom teaching duties who have the authority to lead the implementation in their schools.

A member of the principal class is recommended.
